The Indo-Pacific is a tough neighborhood. Overlapping much of Asia-Pacific, stakeholders include all Six Parties in two trilateral alliances – Korea-Japan-US and North Korea-China-Russia – each with internal issues. Add India, Australia, the Philippines, Indonesia and up to 50 more (depending on who’s counting). Variables include China’s Belt and Road Initiative and the building of militarized islands over atolls and reefs; an arms race that includes North Korea’s rollouts of new submarine-launched ballistic missiles; Taiwan; the Biden Administration; “debt-trap colonialism,” trash talk, a pandemic and much more. Fortune favors those who can look around the corners, and there are many corners. Join a group of experts to discuss the shifting plate tectonics of geopolitical Asia.
